EXPORT LICENSES.

The Board of Trade, Export and Import Section, announces that, in accordance with the Department of Overseas Trade, an arrangement has been made whereby firms receiving orders which require export licence may telegraph to the Board of Trade in the Department of Overseas Trade in order to ascertain whether a licence will be granted for the export of the goods if they are to be shipped.

In the event of an applicant being granted a licence he will be enabled to deal with the matter straightforwardly with the knowledge that once application being made in the proper form to the Export Licence Department the licence will be granted.

The telegrams should be addressed to "Orders, c/o Telegraph, No. 1, London." They should give in each case in addition to the name and postal or telegraphic address of the applicant the quantity and description of the goods concerned in the order and the name and address of the ultimate consignee of the goods are desired for a national country. In the case of orders from Armenia or British Territory or from Turkey in the possession of troops of the Associated Governments, the consignee need not be stated, and it will be sufficient merely to give the quantity and destination. A copy of 14 words (1/10) must be prepared.

Applicants are requested to show their interest in receiving their consignees to orders sending a very urgent despatch, when the lower the consignee the more promptly the answer is given.

Any correspondence that is necessary to be sent to the telegraphic consignee should be addressed to the Comptroller General, Department of Overseas Trade (Export Licence Section), 35, Old Queen Street, Westminster, S.W.1.

No. 1286-D.—The following extract from the "Board of Trade Journal," dated the 15th January 1920, is published for general information:—

GOVERNMENT WITHIN AFFAIRS TRADE.

EXPORT SECTION.

Conditions under which trading is permitted with certain countries.

The Board of Trade have issued the following instructions (Cmd. 312, price 1d.), dealing with trading conditions with certain countries as a result of the termination of the Peace Treaty:—

The following notes on trading conditions as affected by the raising of the blockade, the withdrawal of the suspension of trade with Germany and other countries, and the removal of United Kingdom import restrictions, are published for the information of British traders. These notes supersede those published in July and September last as Parliamentary Papers "Cmd. 274" and "Cmd. 330."

During the war it was necessary to prohibit all trading with the enemy, but the necessity for this prohibition has now ceased. It is no part of the policy of His Majesty's Government to discourage British traders from competing in the markets of the late enemy countries, and it is desirable that British traders should make every effort to secure a proper footing in Central Europe.

I.—GERMANY.

Exports.—Any goods may be sent to Germany without licence, except goods on Lists "A" and "B" of prohibited exports. Applications for export licences in respect of goods included in these lists should be addressed to the Imports and Exports Licensing Section, 35, Colindale Place, Westminster, S.W. 1.

Imports.—Any goods may be imported from Germany, and paid for, without licence except goods whose transportation from all foreign countries is prohibited. The import prohibitions established during the war by means of Royal Proclamations issued under section 42 of the Customs Consolidation Act, 1876, a lot of which, so far as they remained in force after 1st September 1918, was published in Parliamentary Paper, Cmd. 456, have been temporarily suspended pending either revocation of Mr. Justice Sankey's judgment or legislative action to secure powers to impose a limited number of restrictions. Importers, however, should strictly understand that, in the event of those powers being sanctioned by Parliament, or in the event of the judgment being reversed on appeal, licences to import restricted goods will not be granted merely on the ground that the goods had been entered between the date of the judgment and that of the establishment of the restrictions, but will be based solely on consideration of the reasonable requirements of the country.

Other transactions.—Other transactions of a commercial or financial nature with firms in Germany are permissible without further licence, provided they do not involve any of the following matters, namely:—

- (a) The payment or receipt of money arising out of pre-war transactions;
- (b) The delivery of or dealing with property held in the country for persons in Germany since before the outbreak of war;
- (c) The transfer of securities by or on behalf of a person in Germany;
- (d) The allotment or transfer of securities issued by a Company in or for the benefit of a German subject;
- (e) The transfer of any debt or other obligation due to a person in Germany, arising out of pre-war transactions.

It should, of course, be understood that, as regards the clearing of transactions, traders must make the best arrangements they can, and, in the case of uncertainty as to the best mode of proceeding, they should consult their bankers.

Money due to or property acquired by German nationals as a result of transactions entered into since the resumption of trade with Germany was authorised are not liable to sequestration in this country.

II.—TURKEY, BULGARIA AND THE TERRITORIES PREVIOUSLY INCORPORATED IN THE AUSTRO-HUNGARIAN DOMINIONS.

The British regulations are the same as those set out above in the case of Germany except that the collection of duties need by persons or firms in these territories is allowed.

III.—NORWAY, SWEDEN, DENMARK, HOLLAND AND SWITZERLAND.

It is no longer necessary to obtain certificates from Importing Associations in these countries, or to procure other forms of guarantee, or to send goods to such Associations. Export licences, for which applications should be made to the Imports and Exports Licensing Section at the address given above, are required only for goods on Lists 'A' and 'B' of prohibited exports.

IV.—POLAND, FINLAND, ESTONIA, LETTLAND, LITHUANIA.

So far as British regulations are concerned, there are no special restrictions on trade with these countries, but as in the case of other foreign countries export licences are required for goods on Lists 'A' and 'B' and general prohibitions of import apply to those as in other countries.

General Certificates of Origin and Interest.—These certificates are no longer required for goods imported into this country.

Declaration of Ultimate Destination and Disclosure of Names of Consignees.—These declarations will no longer be required to be made in respect of exports from the United Kingdom, and disclosure of the names of the consignees on Bills of Lading or Shipping Manifests is unnecessary, except in a limited number of cases where the Imports and Exports Licensing Section may continue to specify on an export licence the names of the consignees.

Here.—The above statements deal only with such regulations as are in force in the United Kingdom. Traders should also keep cognate to the restrictions on imported goods in foreign countries. Information on this subject may be obtained from the Department of Customs and Trade, 22, Old Queen Street, Westminster, S.W. 9, and 72, Broadgate Street, London, E.C. 2, and is published from time to time, as required, in the "Hand of Trade Journal."

THE MADRAS STUDENT ADVISORY COMMITTEE.

Copy of a communication, dated 26th February 1908, received from Dr. T. W. Arnold, M.A., Educational Adviser to the Secretary of State, is published for the information of students who wish to secure admission to the Engineering classes at the University of Glasgow.

DEAR MR. DAVIES,

I have received information from the University of Glasgow that there are no vacancies either in the first year or in the second year classes, for any students of Engineering next October in the Engineering Department of that University.

I am endeavoring to discover what is likely to be the condition of other Engineering Institutions in this country, and will communicate with you as the subject arises.

I am afraid that the position as regards all Colleges and Universities where Engineering is taught is likely to be very great, owing to the large number of educational grants that have been given by the Government to desolated areas. These students have been admitted in such large numbers that the existing staff has proved inadequate for the carrying on of the work, and in order that teaching may be efficient, Glasgow has been obliged to shut its doors, and I fear that similar action may be taken in other Universities and Colleges also.

Any students of Engineering who apply to you should be warned not to leave India until they have secured admission.

Yours sincerely,

(Sd.) T. W. ARNOLD.

Secretary, Madras Students' Advisory Committee.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

The following Report of the Select Committee on the Bill further to amend the Indian Income-tax Act, 1918, was presented to the Indian Legislative Council on the 17th March 1920:—

We, the undersigned, members of the Select Committee to which the Bill further to amend the Indian Income-tax Act, 1918, was referred, have considered the Bill and have now the honour to submit this our Report, with the Bill as amended by us, to the Council.

1. We have slightly modified the definition of "regulated firms."

2. It has been pointed out that while the new section 14-A, introduced by clause 2 of the Bill, goes so far as to exempt a person who pays income-tax at a higher rate, because his total income is just outside a certain limit and who is therefore worse off than the person whose total income is just below that limit, the parallel case of the person who is liable to income-tax because he has other income just reaches Rs. 2,000 is not provided for. We have therefore made an addition to clause 2 in order to remove this defect.

3. The Bill was published in the Gazette of India in English on the 12th March 1920.

4. We think that the Bill has not been so stated as to require re-publication, and we recommend that it be passed as now amended.

Year.	Section.	Short title.	Extent of repeal.
1917	XI	The Indian Paper Currency (Temporary Amendment) Act, 1917.	The whole.
"	XIX	The Indian Paper Currency (Amendment) Act, 1917.	(1) In the title and preamble the words and figures "and the Indian Paper Currency (Temporary Amendment) Act, 1917," and (2) Sub-section (f) of section 4, and sections 5, 6, 7 and 8.
1918	XIII	The Indian Paper Currency Act, 1918.	The whole.
1919	XVI	The Indian Paper Currency (Further Amendment) Act, 1919.	The whole.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

By a series of arrangements ending with the India Paper Currency (Further Amendment) Act, 1919 (XIII of 1919), the maximum limit up to which the currency reserves can be increased in circulation was raised to Rs. 150 crores, of which Rs. 100 crores must be in British Treasury Bills, though it has been possible so far to avoid the actual application of this additional authorised power of Rs. 50 crores obtained in September last. The Indian Exchange and Currency Committee have made certain recommendations regarding the permissible limit of investment and its distribution as between paper and sterling securities. It is not, however, practicable to give effect to these recommendations immediately, and as the amendments referred to above have temporary duration for the period of the war and the months thereafter, it would in any case be necessary to secure a limited continuance of the existing power.

2. The present Bill goes further, and proposes to abolish the existing limitations as to the nature of the securities in which the investments may be made. This proposal is necessitated by the present demand for securities in London and the impossibility of meeting these from the Secretary of State's treasury resources. If the demand for securities continues, they will have to be met by the disposal of sterling securities held in the Paper Currency Reserve, and this involves the withdrawal and cancellation of currency notes in India to the extent of the highest value at which the securities are held in the reserve. Thus, for every £1 million of sterling securities sold, it would be necessary to cancel 14 crores of currency notes. The withdrawal of currency notes from the currency market to the full extent of the sterling sales might produce serious monetary stringency, and it is proposed accordingly to take power to replace sterling securities withdrawn by the Secretary of State by an equivalent securities in India. The creation of equivalent securities for the purpose mentioned is an emergency measure, which will be resorted to only to the extent to which the state of the money markets renders necessary. Further, it is proposed that the present enactment shall have effect only till the 1st October 1923, by which time it is expected that the Government of India will be in a position to formulate definite proposals regarding the limit to be imposed for investments as to the nature, and the composition of such investments.

3. The opportunity has been taken to amend the existing provisions as to the temporary enactments mentioned above relating to the treatment as paid of the Paper Currency Reserve of gold and silver held in the United States of America or in transit therefrom, as well as gold held in any part of His Majesty's Dominion for exchange or other temporary purpose or in transit to or from such countries.

The powers conferred by this Act shall be in addition to, and not in derogation of, any powers as to the suspension, revocation or commutation of sentences conferred by the principal Act, and a superior military authority shall, in exercising those powers, be subject to that Act, to an authority having power to suspend, revoke or commute sentences under section 132 of that Act.

9. Where in addition to any other sentence the punishment of dismissal has been awarded by a Court-martial, and such other sentence is suspended under this Act, then, notwithstanding anything contained in the principal Act or in any order made thereunder, such dismissal shall not take effect until so ordered by a superior military authority.

Provided that, if a sentence is remitted under this Act, the punishment of dismissal shall also be remitted.
